Call for Proposals

Change of Scene – International artistic cooperations for the Performing Arts. Applications now being accepted!

We are looking for cooperative projects that address prevailing social themes and change, and manifest them in a joint artistic response. Change of Scene helps to initiate and develop international artistic projects that are the result of direct collaboration between the cooperating partners. For up to two years, artists will gain the time and space to meet each other as well as have opportunity for intensive exchange. Existing contacts can be deepened further or built up afresh.

This last call for proposals is directed at city and state theaters as well as independent companies from the German-speaking realm (Germany, Austria or Switzerland) who wish to develop a new artistic project with a partner from North Africa or Eastern Europe. Change of Scene is open to all sectors of the performing arts. There should be a public presentation of the supported projects in both countries, or, at least, in the German-speaking partner country. An international festival and network meeting, which will present a choice of projects realized by then, will take place in Hamburg, in June 2019.

The jury chooses about 10 cooperation projects, each to receive a subsidy of up to 15.000 Euros. The jury consists of Jörg Bochow (Head Dramaturge, Staatsschauspiel Dresden), Anja Dirks (Artistic Director of the Festival Belluard Bollwerk International, Fribourg), Stefan Schwarz (Program Director, tanzhaus NRW, Düsseldorf), Branko Šimić (Theatre director, Hamburg) and Bettina Sluzalek (Artistic Associate, Radialsystem V, Berlin).

Applications can be submitted until 15 February 2018 online in German and English. Partners from North African or Eastern European countries should submit their application together with a partner from the German-speaking realm.
